KEEP THE FUN IN C.B.

Dear Fantastic Staff at the CB offices,

Firstly, the Fun Page seems to be taking a lot of battering—however, I say keep it in, it's good. Nonetheless, it could be improved by having half of it as questions testing readers' knowledge of the Marvel Universe. Please consider this, Owen McCarron.

Next, I feel C.B.'s origin was left very incomplete. These "Gods" should be explained much, much more. In the near future, kindly put aside at least TWO issues devoted to their background.

Thirdly, Chris Claremont has been relieved. He was good, and Gary Friedrich promises to be even greater. Page four of ish 11 was much needed, and Gary evidently intends to delve more deeply into Captain Britain's origin.

L.D. Smith, RFO, KOF, QNS, TTB,
PMM, FOOMER.
Nanpantan Rd., Loughborough, Leics.

We're currently considering a multitude of ideas for the C.B. fun-page, and something very similar to your suggestion is one of the notions under review. So stay hopeful, hero. And when it comes to the question of Captain Britain's origin, well, you may have noticed that there's a long-established Marvel habit of hopping back to origin from time to time. And there's no reason why Cap B. should be an exception to this rule.

SWITCHED OFF

Dear Stan and Bullpen,

I thank your new mag, Captain Britain is superb. It has a great layout of characters. I have always admired Nick Fury, and the FF are good in any comic. CB himself had a good origin and the stories get better every week. But after the praise I come to my complaint. In issue 13 I thought the C.B. story was stupid. The way the cleaner happens to switch off the computer's power which kills Doctor Synne! All my friends who read it agreed with me.

Paul Rutland,
10 Cosgrove Hse., Whiston Rd.,
Hackney, London.

We're sorry you felt so disapproving of that particular CB incident, Paul. Not that we want to wriggle, but, nevertheless, real life is full of such odd incidents, small incidents that have calamitous results. But thanks for keeping us on our toes.

MUCH MORE ACTION!

Dear Larry,

I enjoy reading your comic tremendously, and so do my friends, Dave and William.

According to the Titans, this letter should be published in issue 11 of Captain Britain, and, in the words of Howard Sinclair, quote:

"Even if it lasts half as long as the MWOM it will have more action in those 100-odd weeks than most comics have in 200 issues."

I agree completely, and I think Captain Britain is the very best Marvel magazine.

Giordano Orsini,
5 Haslett Rd.,
Shepperton, Middx.

P.S. Does "Captain Britain" get shipped over to America?

As yet "Captain Britain" isn't available for sale in the U.S., although the New York Bullpen get copies of each issue. Oh — and thanks for those words of praise you penned. We can always recognise sincerity when we meet it.
